

V - culinary

South Africa's Michelin Man

For more than a century, the coveted three Michelin Stars have represented the pinnacle of culinary achievement. Receiving one Star will get the world of fine dining to turn their heads. Be the first from your home country to receive a Star, and everybody suddenly sits up and takes notice. However, restaurants have to maintain very high standards in order for their Michelin star to be "re-awarded" annually. Jan Hendrik van der Westhuizen is South Africa's very first recipient of a Michelin Star in 2016 and has retained his star for 2017. This boytjie van die plaas is our pride and joy.

Words by Helène Ramackers